Bring a taste of your favorite designer home—or, for that matter, enjoy a smorgasbord of home products from several top pros. These latest offerings appeal to the inner shopper in us all.

"HARLOW SLIPPER CHAIR"

Kelly Wearstler

L.A. design doyenne extends her skills to the fine art of accessorizing.

Kelly Wearstler made her name in the design industry as the creative eye behind the bright and buoyant look of the Viceroy boutique hotels. Her Los Angeles-based design firm also has put its stamp on celebrity and executive homes all over California. Now, Wearstler is taking her upscale tastes to the masses—sort of. Marble, wood, brass, pewter, stone, and ceramic pieces make up her new collection of 75 home accessories at Bergdorf Goodman (800/558-1855), with prices ranging from $75 to $4,000. Plans are in the works for a new line of fabrics and trims for Lee Jofa (800/453-3563), plus eight carpets for The Rug Company (212/274-0444).

"MATCHSTICK VASE"

Windsor Smith

Craftsmanship and techno savvy join forces in this California designer's new furniture line.

It's tufted, it's timeless, and it's strikingly fresh for today's taste. It's the "Harlow Tufted Slipper Chair" (from $1,800), part of the elegantly simple line of furniture available on the Internet from the Windsor Smith Home Collection

(windsorsmithhome.com). The Los Angeles-based designer calls her collection "a signature line of handcrafted furniture with nostalgic influence delivered with a flair for the new." Web-shopping addicts say it's high time for high-end online design. In addition to her self-marketed e-furniture,

Smith also has a fabric collection and a line of carpets on the drawing board for Kravet (888/457-2838). ▶
